The Potency of Faith in The Corrections Module

As humans are complex multifaceted beings, so are their needs when seeking out significance, value and worth. They are more than the object of a program or the tool of a new initiative. There must be more than conformity and robotic compliance to those who have more power. So it is with the incarcerated person. They are accustomed to going along in order to get along. This perspective only works until the price for non-compliance is eclipsed by the delicious fruit of self-gratification. With this perspective, no price is too high, no level too low. Many times not even personal shame, loss of one's family, one's marriage or the return to prison can deter this self-destructive behavior. There is an answer. Instead of changing the direction by sheer will, the entire operations mechanism must be replaced. This is where the faith component comes into play. Many offenders are eager to re-evaluate faith principles because they realize their self-seeking strategy has failed them. Chapel programs challenge offenders to address the spiritual issues deep inside that they have ignored and denied. The faith community can assist in providing the element of spirituality during and even after incarceration.

Steps to becoming a Volunteer in Corrections (VIC)

1. Contact the Chaplain to match your interests and skill sets with chapel needs.
2. Complete a Volunteer/Intern application from the Department of Corrections. The application is available at:

3. Include a letter of reference from your sponsoring outside religious organization with the application.
4. The application and reference letter should be sent to the institution where you wish to serve. The Institutional Activity Coordinator (IAC) in cooperation with the Chaplain will review the application, conduct a background check and contact you for an interview.
5. If approved, you will be scheduled to attend a one day volunteer training at one of the DOC training center facilities located in Jefferson City, St. Joseph or Farmington.
6. After successful completion, you will be issued a VIC ID card, screened for Tuberculosis, and provided orientation to the facility. You will be expected to provide regular services during the year as scheduled, remain compliant with TB testing and complete six hours of in-service training per year.
